Truman Signs Tax Cut Bill

First Reduction Since 1929
Now Law; Removes Tax
from 12 Millions.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—The White House today announced that President Truman had signed the bill giving individuals and business a slash of $5,920,000,000 in 1946 taxes.

Mr. Truman thus became the first President in 16 years to sign a general tax reduction measure.
Not since Herbert Hoover put his signature on a "Christmas present" slash in 1929 has there been an overall reduction of pocketbook levies.

Congressional sponsors of the legislation said it would stimulate business in the reconversion period and create jobs.
The White House this morning said the bill was signed yesterday.

CHIANG ARMY MOVED BY U. S.

Nationalist Troops Slip Into Battle Array Along Great Wall Facing Reds.

By The Associated Press
CHINWANGTOA, Nov. 9—
American transported Chinese Nationalist troops have moved into battle positions opposing the Yenan Communist forces along the eastern end of the great Chinese wall, boundary between disputed North China and Manchuria.

But, possibly because of the presence of American Marines in strategic positions in the area, fighting has not broken out, despite the fact thousands of Nationalist and Communist oppose each other at Shanhaiwan (Linyu), the ancient city which forms part of the great wall and is its eastern anchor on the gulf of Chihli, 10 miles north of Chin-wangtoa.

The elements of two Chinese Nationalist armies, the Thirteenth and the 52nd—were put ashore by United States amphibious forces under Vice Adm. Daniel Barbey.
They spread out toward the great wall of China—and the strong forces of the Communist Eight Route army along it.

FOES DISRUPT HEARINGS ON TRUMAN PLAN

Today's Draft Session Off in Drive To Delay Action
Till Next Year.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Nov. 9—President Truman ran into more trouble in congress today.
Foes of his proposal for universal military training have temporarily disrupted the hearings which began yesterday before the house military committee.

Today's session was cancelled.
Moreover, members of the committee opposed to compulsory training have begun a strong drive to stop the hearings until 1946.

A vote on the question had been expected today, but Chairman Andrew May (D-Ky.) suddenly cancelled the session to avoid a decision at this time. He wants the hearings to continue. The outcome of the vote next Tuesday is uncertain.

Some Central Pupils Walk Out Again Today in Demonstration

Few Seventh and Eighth Graders Leave Classes; Some Return After Brief Period.

A few seventh and eighth grade pupils at Central Junior High school today were attempting to continue yesterday's demonstration against the defeat of the high school bond issue in Tuesday's election.

Supt. E. E. Holt reported the situation in Harding High school, and Edison and Vernon Junior High schools was normal.
The walkout at Central was resumed some time after school took up this morning when a number of pupils left the building.

Within a short time many of them returned, Mr. Holt said. Some others left the school premises.
Number Not Known
How many were in this morn-ing's episode could not be determined until a later check was made on attendance.

Apparently the only other absentees from the four schools, Harding High, Edison, Central and Vernon Junior high schools, were caused by the inclement weather and not from yesterday's demonstration.

The students walked out of classes yesterday in the four schools at 9:30 a. m. according to a plan arranged the previous night by the pupils and the day-long demonstration was climaxed by a parade through the streets of downtown Marion shortly after noon. It was estimated that more than 2,000 pupils participated in the walkout.

Throughout the day groups of protesting students formed before the courthouse and at Jobs and Progress headquarters and held impromptu pep meetings when they chanted "New Schools or No Schools" and other phrases pertaining to the defeat of the bond issue in Tuesday's election which would have provided new schools.

Police said for the most part the students were orderly although a few of the younger pupils were a little too enthusiastic and a few reports of property damage were received by police.
In the parade in the afternoon the students followed the Harding High school band, not in uniform, to the Harding stadium where the participants disbanded.

WILL VACATE ABOUT DEC. 15, REAMS IS TOLD

Says State Can Lease Property for Hospital Use Soon Afterward.

The State is interested in acquiring the 812-acre administration area which includes barracks, a cafeteria, administration buildings and a hospital. The state also may try to acquire an adjoining 460-acre tract of farm land.

The buildings would provide space for housing 2,000 patients.
Mr. Reams said the Army indicated it would vacate the plant by Dec. 15.

"This," Reams told a reporter,
"will enable the state to arrange a lease of a portion of the facilities for a temporary hospital for mental patients."

He got his information at a conference with N. K. Bell, assistant deputy administrator of the surplus property administration.
After the property is declared surplus by the Army, Reams said, the works will be turned over to the Federal Works administration which will advertise for bids, Reams said.

The state, he added, will be able to enter a temporary lease immediately the installation is declared surplus, thereby hurrying relief of crowded conditions among mental patients.

Also Reams Hospital
Reams also discussed with Bell the possibility that Ohio could acquire the Crile Army hospital near Cleveland and the Fletcher hospital near Cambridge for use as permanent state institutions.

Whether these hospitals will be declared surplus by the war department, Reams said, depends on the size of the peacetime Army.
Should the hospitals be released by the Army, the Veterans administration probably would have preference if it needed them.
Reams said the state would be next in line, adding:

"We have our foot in the door."
Reams lunched with Senator Huffman (D-Ohio). He had a reservation on the train for Columbus late today.

Presidents in High Spirits for Sandusky Tilt Tonight

Coach Petrich Reports Injury Situation Improved, But Still Calls for Frequent Substitutions.

Harding's Presidents held one final workout yesterday afternoon before tonight's fray with the strong Sandusky gridder at the Lakefront city. Coach Petrich appeared to be pleased with the attitude and spirit of the squad. Most of the injuries are coming along fine but there are still a few which will undoubtedly harm the Prexies.

Jerry Richie practiced for the first time this week but still is not feeling up to par and may see very little action tonight. Dick Holliday is another boy who has been slightly ill for the past week and it is doubtful that he will be at his customary end position.

Several sophomores have been showing up particularly well recently and have demonstrated a great deal of fight and determination. Tonight's starting lineup will be made up with some of these sophomores. Bill England and Bob Smith will be the ends. Bob Heston and Jack Hoffman at tackles. Bob Short and either Earl Strobe or Charles Cline will start at guards and Dave Lee will be at the center post. Ralph Weber will probably be Petrich's choice for the starting quarterback. Dick Taylor at left half, Jim Hill, right half, and Jim Coss at the full-back position.

Gene Frederick will probably see plenty of action at guard, and Dick Huddle and Gene Andrews will be used for backfield replacements. Petrich says he will do a lot of substituting tonight due to the fact that there are so many boys with slight injuries and that they can not stand much rough treatment. Another reason for frequent substituting is that he is using sophomores who have played very little and thus will not be able to endure four full quarters. Game time at Sandusky is 8 o'clock.

OHIO'S "NOT-SO-BIG" SCHOOLS TALK OVER TRI-STATE LEAGUE

Discuss Alliance with Michigan and Indiana; Monday Football Is Prospect.

By HAROLD HARRISON
AP Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 9.—Merrill L. Butler, Miami University's athletic director, wonders if there might not be a chance now to form a new conference in Ohio, Indiana and Michigan involving schools not big enough for "big time" athletics and too rugged for most of the others in their respective states.

Chewing the fat at an Ohio State football smoker the other night, Ditmer and other named such schools as Miami, Dayton, Ohio University, Cincinnati, Butler University, of Indianapolis, Toledo, Western Reserve and Detroit as possible for such a league. It also might include Ohio Wesleyan, Western Michigan and maybe a Kentucky school or two.

There wouldn't be too much travel involved and it should be rather evenly matched although judged from pre-war standards, Detroit might have a slight edge in football and Butler in basketball.

Monday Night Football
The University of Toledo is considering installing lights for the 1946 grid season. Realizing the difficulty of bucking high school football and drawing crowds on Saturday afternoons, the Rockets also are thinking about playing some games on Monday nights. Acting Athletic Director Dave Connelly and Head Coach Bill Craig would like to have such teams as Ohio University, Marshall college and the University of Dayton play in the Toledo Stadium next fall.

Odds and Ends
Joe Halberstein of the Lima News reports plans for a greater Ohio High school football league have gone awry because Hamilton withdrew and Lima South Central lost interest. That left only Portsmouth, Middletown and Springfield, and Portsmouth declared it was interested in the loop only if it could play both football and basketball. Mansfield, Martins Ferry, Akron North and Warren are others mentioned for the basketball conference.

There probably won't be a new chairman of the state conservation commission named until around Feb. 1. George M. Trautman, of course, will give up the position when he takes over as general manager of the Detroit Tigers. Conservation department officials say, however, that since the term of another member of the commission will expire Feb. 1, the chairmanship probably will be left vacant until the commission is at full strength.

The mythical British little people called "brownies" are really a type of fairy.

O.S.U.-Pitt Battle Heads State Gridiron Program for Saturday

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 9.—Ohio State's Bucks, rolling toward Pittsburgh today, have plenty of Ohio company tomorrow on college football's big time circuit. Miami and Cincinnati join the Bucks in meeting foes that usually rate well toward the top of the nation's grid teams. Miami plays Purdue and Cincinnati tangles with the University of Detroit.

The Bucks, hopeful that the up-roar over the status of Paul Sarnghaus and Coach Carroll Widdoes' feud with Columbus sports writers will have no ill effects, left this forenoon for the 10th game with Pitt's somewhat impotent Panthers.

Widdoes reported the squad at full strength for its effort to record victory No. 7 against Pitt. The Panthers have won two from Ohio and one ended in a tie. Miami rated a decided underdog to once-beaten Purdue and Detroit was doped to have a slight edge over Cincinnati.

In the state, interest centers on the clash between Ohio University and Baldwin-Wallace and Capital's bid for second place in the Ohio conference against Wittenberg.

The contest with Ohio U. winds up a 10-game schedule for Baldwin-Wallace and the Yellowjackets are seeking their seventh triumph as against three losses.

A victory over Wittenberg would give Capital the second spot in the Ohio conference behind Oberlin, the new champions.

Other conference games pit Kenyon against Heidelberg, both after their first victory, and Ohio Northern against Otterbein.

Three conference teams face non-league foes. Victoryless Woster meets Western Michigan. Ashland plays Albion (Mich.) college and Muskingum tangles with Fletcher General hospital of Cambridge.

Russia's No. 1 Fan

Unofficially the No. 1 football fan of the Soviet Union is Dmitry Shostakovich, famed composer of symphonies, pictured here.

Dmitry and the other Russian rooters have reason to yell this year, for the big country is having one of its best seasons.

Football in Russia is really soccer—the kind of football played with the head and feet and not with the hands, hips and body as in the United States.

Russians don't boo, but get the same effect by whistling. When a score is made they kiss. Although they have no hot dogs or hamburgers, the hawkers sell plenty of "Morozhnik" which is what the Russians eat for ice cream.

They have a word for "Oh you bum" too. They'll holler "mazilo" or maybe just plain "durook."

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

IF OLINA had astonished me before, this last speech of hers, said, in her own words, "I'm not a baby, I'm a woman." But I had in the past seen her make a mighty effort to salvage her reputation, my composure, and echoed her to me in a most graceful way, as if I merely found her in a trifle difficult to understand. "Did you say you don't count on Georges' loyalty?" I asked. "You find that surprising, don't you?" she countered in a casual tone as she would have used in discussing a menu. "But that is because you were not reared as I was."

She paused, and her eyes sought the farthest wall of the room, almost, I told myself as if she had sent them far afield in search of the old life she had known now forever vanished.

"You see," she began, "I'm a royal woman and please don't think I mean that boastfully, she interrupted herself to say, in evident mental distress.

"Oh, my dear girl!" I admonished her. "I could not misunderstand you Go on."

"Thank you," she said simply, then broke into hurried speech.

The 20-year-old Ohioan was killed in action four days later.

Two New Rat Poisons Make U.S. Independent of Foreign Types

By HARRISON HUMPHRIES
AP Science Writer
WASHINGTON, Nov. 9 — With the development of 1080 and ANTU, the United States for the first time is independent of the rest of the world for a powerful rat poison.

The three most important rat poisons used before the war were red squill, a big bromine-like substance imported from the Mediterranean area, thallium, a medicinal substance which came from Germany, Belgium and France, and strychnine, extracted from East Indian plants.

Although none of the three is a perfect rodenticide, the United States was forced to rely on them. Lack of them during the war forced the Fish and Wildlife Service and the Office of Scientific Research and Development to undertake a search for a substitute which finally resulted in 1080.

Many disadvantages
A disadvantage of red squill is that its toxicity varies. Thallium is highly dangerous. So is strychnine.

Ten-eighths and ANTU remain stable in storage despite age. Rats prefer 1080 to non-poison baits.

One of the chief advantages of 1080 and ANTU is that they can be manufactured entirely of domestic chemicals at relatively low cost.

Dr. Ira N. Gabrielson, director of the Fish and Wildlife Service, says 1080 could be made by the ton if required to stamp out any future outbreak of bionics plague or typhus, which are spread by rats.

Only one company now makes the poison and none of it has been placed on the market. Its use so far has been strictly controlled by government agencies because it is poisonous to many animals besides rats—dogs and cats particularly. A 40-pound dog will be killed if it eats a rat which has consumed just enough poison to kill it.

Poison 1080 also has been found fatal to ground squirrels, mice, gophers, prairie dogs, rabbits and crickets.

No Tests on Man
No experiments have been made as to the effect of 1080 on man. Tests on laboratory monkeys indicate that it is probably not so poisonous to man as to other animals.

It has been estimated a 140-pound man would have to eat 306 ounces of the usual 1080 bait to get a lethal dose. Eighty-fourths of an ounce of the usual strychnine bait would kill him.

In terms of future benefit to the nation, experts say that the development of 1080 may be one of the best in the government's ever made.

Prisoners Given "Picnic" With a Catch

The 34th chapter of Gen. Wainwright's own story, an American leader tells of his transfer to another prison camp, where the sole hope of his new prisoners turned out to be a picnic.

GENERAL JONATHAN M. WAINWRIGHT

Installment No. 34
On Nov. 5, 1943, 28 of the senior officers and Allied governors and orderlies were separated from the Tamazato camp on Formosa. The 29 officers and men were ordered to pack up and to rattle around in Tamazato, after our expressions of hope that they would find treatment wherever they were going — and this was to be another fruitless hope.

It was a lonesome without them at Tamazato. We were then through so much together that we had depended heavily upon our numbers for comfort and cooperative desire to go on living.

On June 23 those of us who were left at Tamazato were told to stand up our camp.

FRANK BROS.

It was the same old story as had so many of our fellow prisoners. We were to be sent to a special camp prepared for us near Mukao, also on Formosa.

We were to leave in three or four days for Kanchiku, where we were to be sent to a camp. We were to be sent to a camp. We were to be sent to a camp.

Crammed Quarters
It was the same old story as had so many of our fellow prisoners. We were to be sent to a special camp prepared for us near Mukao, also on Formosa.

Duck Only Fat One
At 9 a. m. on June 24, 1943, our boat docked at Kuei-lung, the port town of Taihoku, which is the capital of Formosa. We were to be sent to a camp. We were to be sent to a camp.

We were taken by train to Taihoku, which lies about 20 miles inland, ordered out of the train and all of us, including Donald (four inevitable name for the duck), were loaded into one truck and moved the remaining six miles to our new camp, which lay near the village of Mukao.

The new camp's buildings were made of rough pine board and were placed on a hill above a valley of rice fields. The hill had originally been an orange grove, but most of its trees were gone by the time we reached there.

We were assigned to a long, low one-story building with a straight hall down the center and eight small rooms off each side of the hall.

Semblance of Comfort
They were tiny—11½ feet by 10, as I measured them—but each room had an easy chair, a bamboo bed and table for our meals and writing. We were even given a number of books, seized from the British consul at Taihoku by the Japanese alien property custodian.

As a further test of our credulity, we received more rice at our first meal than I had seen at one time since my early days of captivity at Manila. What is more, it was accompanied by vegetables.

We were told that we could spend 100 yen of our prisoner of war pay each month for cigars, even a few cigars, tomato catsup, soya sauce, tea and sugar. We would even be given fruit, and we would not be forced to work if we did not care to do so.

It was all too good to be true, as the enlisted men soon found out. A few days after our arrival they were handed the usual chunkers and ordered to clear land for a farm. But the officers were not made to work at this time. We sat by and waited, wondering what the catch was.

The "Benevolent Age"
We did not have long to wait. About a week after our arrival we were visited by a beaming, contented-looking Jap colonel, a member of the staff of the commander of the Taiwan (Formosa) army. He was almost outrageously friendly, and looked astonishingly like a benevolent ape.

Piles
Are Never "Mild"

DANGER IN NEGLECT

No one should ever think of piles (hemorrhoids) as a "mild" ailment. Although they may seem a "mild" ailment, especially when not giving pain or inconvenience, piles are in fact a serious condition. If neglected, they are likely to develop into a serious condition, involving more and more of the rectal area.

CONSTANTIN VON NEURATH
By The Associated Press
Constantin von Neurath, 72, after serving imperial Germany and later the republic as diplomat in Turkey, Denmark and Italy, was ambassador to England from 1930 to 1932. Returning to Germany he became Hitler's minister of foreign affairs until Joachim von Ribbentrop replaced him in 1938. His early Republican background being conservative, as late as two years ago he was believed to be the man who would head Germany if it were defeated.

Neurath was president of the Nazi secret cabinet council. Just let me know I will fix it. You can trust me.

We just looked at him, unable to answer, knowing that there must be a method in what was patently sheer madness.

Provide Food For Food
So we collected money and bought 10 half-grown hogs and some chicks. Several of the senior officers also began small gardens, planting tomatoes.

We slaughtered the two goats shortly after our arrival, for we were necessarily hungry. The Jap guard here at Mukao split our meat on a 50-50 basis, but despite the fact that a few unappetizing hunks of goat meat were all we had to show for months of caring for what had originally been our herd, the nutrition was gratefully received.

Col. Sasawa and his men became regular visitors and soon dropped all pretense about their mission in life.

One of his brightly smiling lieutenants came into my little room one day. "General Wainwright," he said, "what do you want most in the world?"

I looked at him a moment. "I want to see the war successfully terminated and get back to my country," I answered.

That was his cue. "Exactly! And I know a way to do just that," he beamed.

One Answer for That I guess I raised an eyebrow at that.

"If you will just write to your President Roosevelt and tell him there is no use for America to carry on this war any further," I stood up. "I decline to discuss this matter with you," I said as heatedly as I could. "Now I will be pleased if you will leave this room."

He left, but the Jap propaganda department, in whose camp we were now crammed, was far from discouraged. Col. Sasawa sent word a few days later that we were all invited to a picnic near a Shinto shrine in a pretty natural setting on an adjoining hill.

word a few days later that we were all invited to a picnic near a Shinto shrine in a pretty natural setting on an adjoining hill.

We all accepted, for there was a promise that the food would be good. And it was. We had to be cautious about ducks, which we ate until the bones were bleached, not knowing until we had finished and this information came from a very grizzled Sgt. Carroll that we had eaten ducks.

The Japs had grabbed out pet a few hours before the picnic. I learned, to my neck over the angry protests of Carroll and Sgt. Maj. George Pike, a great old Yorkshirer who had headed Carroll Lane Donnell to the duck-utal plumpness.

All of us had grown attached to Donald, so none of the officers or the Japs were in a very receptive mood when Col. Sasawa showed up at the end, beaming appreciatively, and launched into an attack on the Allies. He was particularly abusive about the United States.

In shocked tones, he pointed out a line of young American women during the war. As for the chances of a U. S. victory, he laughed scornfully.

"You have no chance of beating Japan," he cried, looking at me. "I will tell you this. It takes 2,000 Japanese soldiers to defeat one American soldier."

"Now there are 100 million people in the Japanese Empire," he went on. "It will therefore take ten times 100 million people to defeat Japan. To move such a large mass of people is impossible. It will therefore become a matter of generations, and thus you yourselves have no hope of repatriation. None of you will live long enough."

Picnic Concluded
He waited for a reply, but got none. Then he announced abruptly that the picnic was over, and we were to get back to our camp under guard.

Late in November, 1943, we received an old copy of the English language Nippon Times at Mukao and in skimming through it my name leaped out of the page. It was a Domei dispatch.

A Day for Grateful Celebration

Today is a day to celebrate the first anniversary of the second day of the war in which every citizen of this country has been called upon to contribute to the victory.

The day is a day of grateful celebration for the public expression of gratitude and appreciation for the sacrifices and sacrifices of the nation's service men and women.

The day is a day to be remembered by all of us as a day when men and women and children have lost their lives or were physically injured. Along with that go the joy and rejoicing for the victory and peace that has come.

Now, thousands of those who took part in the war are being called back home and will have a place of honor in the parade. A special invitation has gone out to them and those in charge of the day's program hope that all who possibly can will be in line. Certainly the procession could be far from complete without a large representation from World War II.

Viewing the parade will be thousands from the number of Americans for whom the fighting was done and the sacrifices made. On the home front they contributed in one way or another to winning the victory and peace, but what they did and what they gave was so insignificant in comparison with the service of those in uniform that they can lay no claim to laurels or praise. But they do have the right and privilege of being proud and humbly grateful for their citizenship in a country kept free and prosperous by those who will be honored on this Armistice and Victory day.

Golden Rule, Slightly Modified

Winston Churchill, who is clearly entitled to an opinion on the status of the atomic bomb in international relations since he headed the British government that helped to develop it, has fallen back on a modification of the Golden Rule.

He does not feel apologetic for being a citizen of a country that shares the secret of the bomb's manufacture. He does not believe his country or the United States should feel obligated to give the secret to any country, including Russia, which is asking for it. If they find it out for themselves, that is another matter.

Mr. Churchill feels this way, he explains to the House of Commons, because if Russia had the secret and some other government wanted it, the Russians would keep it to themselves, according to all present indications. Which is also what the United States, Great Britain and Canada intend to do, according to all present indications. They are going to tell just as much about the momentous thing they learned how to do as they would expect to be told.

The Serenity of Autumn

Though serenity is not the mood traditionally associated with autumn, which usually brings sadness, there is a departure from the usual this year, which has been exceptional in so many ways.

Well into the season when tempestuous weather is more often the rule than the exception, the quiet days and nights of one of the most restful autumns in memory are still with us, like a lingering benediction. It is as though a quiet, all-wise, had judged correctly a torn world a urgent need for peace while it gathers what is left of its battered strength for the tasks of reconstruction.

We have been permitted to drift gently from the phase of weather's cycle in which the war ended into our first post-war winter. The days that were green when violence stopped have yielded to the gentle persuasion of age and frost and fluttered mildly to the ground. The water that is almost here has come so easily its institution is merely noted, not resented. November has been no like October.

In all this, Nature has done its part these last few months to restore peace in men in its example in the things men see and are moved by most fundamentally. All is right with the world. All can be right with men if they will profit by the larger serenity that is theirs for the taking.

Wash., Nov. 8. — The Republican Party's attack on the administration of President Truman has reached a new high point today as William F. Hannegan, Republican National Committee chairman, launched a full-scale assault on the president's record.

Hannegan, in a speech before the House of Representatives, accused Truman of "betraying the American people" and of "leading the country into a state of chaos." He claimed that Truman's policies had led to the loss of jobs and the inflation of the dollar.

The speech was a direct challenge to Truman's recent victory in the midterm elections and his growing popularity among the American people.

WASHINGTON—Separate labor courts, which have been urged for the United States by Harold Stassen, have been operating in Sweden since 1925.

Stassen, who is now in the United States, has been advocating the establishment of similar labor courts in the United States. He believes that such courts would help to resolve labor disputes more quickly and fairly.

THIS ONE IS FOR THEM!

You have bought Bonds for bullets and bombs, and the weapons to fight a war!

That war is won! This is victory! And Victory Bonds are for the men who fought, and won!

BONDS TO BRING THEM HOME

Our millions of fighting men have one dominant thought—let's get home! And it's up to us to bring them home, fast! That takes ships and planes and trains. It takes money . . . it takes Bonds . . . Victory Bonds to bring back the men who won that victory!

BONDS TO HEAL THEIR WOUNDS

The war may be won, but there's still a long fight ahead for the men who must come home to a hospital. They, above all, deserve their country's best. The best of medicine and nursing, the best of care for their wounds of body and spirit. But the best comes high, it takes money . . . it takes Bonds . . . Victory Bonds to heal the wounds that bought victory!

BONDS TO BUILD THEIR FUTURE

They won a war for us. But didn't they win something for themselves, too? This country, through the "G. I. Bill of Rights" has promised the veteran a better future, a chance for education, help in getting a job, loans for his home or to start a business of his own. It's up to us to back the "Bill of Rights" . . . back it with Bonds . . . Victory Bonds to help build new lives for the men who fought for victory.

Bonds For YOUR Future, Too!

The dollars you lend the government do double duty! They help meet the tremendous expense of winding up the war; and they build future security for you and your family!

Victory Bonds will keep your money making money! Each $75 E Bond you buy now will come back in 10 years as $100.

So buy all the Bonds you can . . . keep all the Bonds you buy!

*Following the Victory Bonds, the sale of U.S. and U.S. Savings Bonds will continue through regular authorization agencies and through the Payroll Savings Plan.

YOUTH ORGANIZATIONS AT EPWORTH SERVICE

Hear Dr. Akers Speak on Theme "The Good Fight."

Speaking in Epworth Methodist church last night when youth organizations of the church attended as special groups, Dr. L. R. Akers of Columbus used as his theme, "The Good Fight." Mrs. Ruth Ann Kennedy sang "In Joy Triumphant Praise the Lord," accompanied by Mrs. M. C. Kennedy and Paul Smith played a flute solo, "Souvenir," accompanied by Mrs. C. H. Indor.

Dr. Akers said: "Life and light are almost synonymous words for almost every day from the cradle to the grave man is engaged in some form of struggle. In early childhood there is disease to contend with and the various maladies common to that period are to be met and overcome.

"School days represent an endeavor to become intellectually fit for the problems of life and for the making of a livelihood. It is knowledge that transforms, it is knowledge that creates, knowledge is the 'open sesame' to success. Knowledge is the yardstick by which we measure the progress of the race. Education is the arch that undergirds civilization but the strength of this support is just in the measure that it is permeated by the life-sustaining ideals of the Man of Galilee.

"Christianity is the most challenging challenge that will ever confront a man. It doesn't mean a man must be great to be a Christian but it takes all there is of a man to truly follow Jesus Christ.

"Christianity is the maker of the finest life the world has ever seen. Gladstone, the great English premier, at the close of his 10 years' service said: 'Men of England, in the years I have served you I have met 60 of our nation's master minds and 57 of these outstanding characters were followers of the Christ.'

At the close of the service there was a response to the appeal for commitment and life service. Tonight Dr. Akers will speak on "The Good Fight."
